

Getting started with Amazon Kindle®

You can borrow Kindle Books from your library and deliver them wirelessly* to your Kindle device.

Step 1

Use a computer (or any device with an Internet connection) and use your Internet browser to go to your library's OverDrive-powered website at: pls.lib.overdrive.com

Step 2

On your library's OverDrive-powered website, use the advanced search or search filters to find an eBook that is available in the Kindle Book format (or, look for the "Available formats" on each title's details page).

Step 3

Once you borrow an eBook that is available as a Kindle Book, select Kindle Book from the Download drop-down menu that appears next to the title on your Bookshelf, then select Confirm & Download. You will be taken to Amazon's website to complete your checkout.

Step 4

On Amazon's website, follow the on-screen prompts to "Get library book" and wirelessly deliver it to your Kindle device. You will need to sign in to your Amazon account to complete this process. If you do not have an Amazon account, you will be prompted to create one.

*Note: Kindle devices require a WIFI connection to download library Kindle Books from Amazon. You cannot download via a 3G connection. If you do not have a WIFI connection or if your Kindle does not support WIFI, you may transfer Kindle Books via a USB connection between your computer and your Kindle device.

Once you deliver a library Kindle Book to your device, it works like any other Kindle Book. (You may have to go to Settings then Sync & Check for Items for the book to download.)

out of the norm. I had come to depend on my schedule and order ov years to keep me on an even keel.

Geena secured her seatbelt. "We've spent a lifetime keeping this ourselves. What's a few more days or years?" Sarcasm laced her w I noted the bitterness in her tone, but I said nothing. I had no desir into this further. In fact, I wished fervently that I could forget we'd & brought the subject up.

Geena had already plugged in our address on the GPS, while I maneuvered through the ferry traffic to disembark. Lights glittered fi buildings and reflected on the black waters of Sinclair Inlet. It felt h familiar. I followed the other cars onto Washington Avenue without word.

This was a huge mistake, I told myself. Over the years I'd learned with our family secrets—our life of unspeakable questions. What in world was Dad thinking to bring us all here now? I felt my chest tig

"At the next street make a right onto the Manette Bridge," Geena about the time the GPS announced the same.

I suddenly felt exhausted. A sort of oppression had settled over me—weighing me down, stealing all of my residual energy. I heard before I saw the flashing lights of the ambulance pop around the cor ahead of us. I braked hard and waited for it to pass, but in my mind ambulance in the tree-lined driveway of our summer home.

I could still hear the paramedics calling out numbers, orders, con "She's not breathing. We're going to need to intubate."
